

Joint BASHH & FSRH Conference 2025 Past, Present and Future

Welcome to the 20th Annual Joint BASHH and FSRH Conference

It is a remarkable milestone to celebrate 20 years of collaboration between GUM specialists and sexual and reproductive health care professionals. Over the past two decades, we have worked together to address evolving challenges, share expertise, and enhance patient care. This year's conference embraces our theme: Past, Present, and Future, bringing together our shared history, our current challenges, and our aspirations for the future of integrated care.

Today, the focus on sexual and reproductive health care has never been more critical. With increasing rates of sexually transmitted infections, the need to deliver effective contraceptive care to a diverse population, and rising pressures on NHS services and budgets, we are faced with the challenge of ensuring accessible, individualised, and inclusive care for all.

Our shared expertise in managing complex cases in everyday practice highlights the importance of collaboration. Together, we can explore innovative solutions and enhance integration across our services. This conference provides a unique opportunity to reflect on where we have come from, examine where we are now, and collectively shape the future of sexual and reproductive health care.

Delegates can use this 20th conference as a platform to collaborate, innovate, and strengthen our commitment to delivering exceptional care.
